Here are 11 things you can do to better engage your heart in worship, particularly on Sunday.

- 1. Pray before you go. Give thanks for the blessings of the week to get the mind focused on why we worship. Pray for those leading worship. Pray that the cares and distractions of the world would be taken away. Pray for an open heart and mind.
- 2. Read before you go. Pick a text that will get your mind in the right place. It could be a psalm of praise, a section about what Jesus has done for us, or anything that prepares the mind to worship and show love to the church family.
- 3. Bring your Bible. This is going to sound strange, but I'm a firm believer that not all Bibles are created equal. By that I mean that every Christian should have a go-to Bible not just an app.
- 4. Be there. Sporadic attendance is one of the best ways to kill enthusiastic worship. Giving God the Sundays that aren't occupied by "something better to do" is offering Him that which costs us nothing (2 Samuel 24:24), and there's no value in that.
- 5. Go with a plan to encourage. Hebrews 10:25 tells us not to forsake the assembly, but 10:24 tells us why – we need to be there to stir each other up to greater love and good works. Don't just go as a spectator or a consumer. Go with a plan to help spread the love of Christ to others.
- 6. Go to Bible class. It's hard to grow in the faith with just a sermon every week. While attending Bible class still doesn't give us all the spiritual nourishment we need, it certainly doesn't hurt. And, it just adds to the time around our Christian family, which should always be a priority.
- 7. Remind yourself why you're there. It's terribly easy to sit in our regular seat, fall into our regular routine, and lose sight of why we've come. Take a moment before worship begins to refocus on the God you've come to praise.
- 8. Think about the words to the songs. It's amazing how well something can become welded into our memory when put to a tune. Most of us could just about sing "Amazing Grace" in our sleep. That's why it's important to let the deep truths set in to our hearts.
- 9. Take notes. You don't have to get the lesson down word-for-word. But it makes a difference if you can write down the Scripture references, catch the major points, and write down any lines that particularly stand out to you.
- 10. Talk about the sermon afterward. Whether in the foyer before you leave or over lunch, take some time to rehash what you learned in the sermon or class.

This Sunday's topic is
"When Children Fall"

"Even the best of parents face times when children disappoint them. How parents react to the troubles their children cause can affect a child's destiny. How does a faithful parent deal with an unfaithful child? God's word has an answer."
