Using Our Place

The story of Paul and Silas in jail in Acts 16 is a rather popular passage among Christians; the singing, the earthquake, the jailer's conversion-- all these elements make a compelling narrative. The overlooked portion of this chapter, in my view, comes at the very end. I think we may lack context to really get it and how to apply it.

Now when day came, the chief magistrates sent their officers, saying, "Release those men." And the jailer reported these words to Paul, saying, "The chief magistrates have sent word that you be released. So come out now and go in peace." But Paul said to them, "After beating us in public without due process—men who are

Some notes to say Thank You

Thank you so much for your kindness shown to me and my family at the passing of my sister Rose Hose. Your kind words, cards, and food were very comforting at such a stressful time.

Jim and Sarah Shuman
