

Late Easter Party.

March/April 2016.

- ◆ For majority of people at Kagaene village, Good Friday and Easter Monday are just like any other days in the calendar. On 13th April, we decided to invite all the kids from the neighborhood for a simple party and share with them about the death and the resurrection of our Lord.
- ◆ I voluntarily agreed to provide 10 loaves of bread and the deacon agreed to bring 15 liters of tea with sugar and milk.

The Church Deacon and I.

◆ Brother Kanywithia, serves as the only deacon for this Congregation.

◆ Him and I had arrived early to receive the kids from their parents and guardians.

Mwenda and Kananu.

- ◆ These two guys live a few feet from the Church building. They were the first to show up.
- ◆ The boy's name is Mwenda and the girl's is Kananu.

Then James came

◆ James Muriuki's parents are denominational but James has for a while been attending Sunday School with us.

◆ I hope to reach his parents through him.

More kids arrived

Looks like a good day :)

Finally, one of the Sunday school teachers arrives.

- ◆ The congregation has two Sunday school teachers - Nkirote and Karimi (both ladies).
- ◆ On the left is the deacon and on the right is our youth leader, brother Kirimi.

◆ From left, one of the parents, the congregation deacon, one of the Sunday school teachers, and the congregation's youth leader outside the Church building.

Getting started

- ◆ One of the Sunday school teachers (in a red top) getting everyone seated.

- ◆ Karimi, one of the Sunday school teachers serving tea to the kids.
- ◆ Our party included tea with milk and sugar, and slices of bread.

Time to eat and drink.

◆ Everyone sat where they wanted.

Some parents joined us.

Photos after the party.

◆ Mwenda and Kananu's home at the background.

Late comers were also welcomed.

Parents who came to pick their kids.

The deacon and I shake hands after everyone else had left. We were glad that all went well.

We had new kids and new parents from denominational congregations who joined us.

Prayer Requests.

Help us pray for Zakayo Gitonga, the Congregation Minister at Kagaene Church of Christ. He has been ill for about three weeks now. The local health centre nurse said it's Malaria. Join us in prayers for his quick healing.
